1. The most impressive thing is the length of the entire parliament meeting. The live video of the parliament meeting on YouTube that I saw runs for almost 11 hours.
2. The most disappointing thing is that there is no English subtitle, so I need Google Translate or every text on screen 😞
3. I expect a period of adjustment with the new prime minister. While I am not well-versed in Thai politics, from what I have found regarding the prime minister election in English news, it is the third prime minister in two years. We can only hope that the politics in the Thai parliament balance itself out and handle this period of political instability/uncertainty.
